Associate Professor of Practice in Urban and Regional Planning, University of Michigan Taubman College of Architecture and Urban Planning

Marc Norman is an internationally recognized expert on policy and finance for affordable housing and community development. Trained as an urban planner, he has worked in the field of community development and finance for over 20 years. Norman often engages with both students and communities by teaching courses on real estate and housing policy, previously implementing initiatives such as UPSTATE: A Center for Design Research and Real Estate. He was a 2014-2015 Harvard Loeb Fellow at the Graduate School of Design. In addition, since 1994 Marc has served as a board member for 11 different non-profit and community organizations addressing issues of affordable housing, community development, finance, and design.
